1. Introduction

The Policing Authority

The Policing Authority is an independent statutory body, established on 1 January 2016 to oversee the performance of the Garda Síochána in relation to policing services. The functions of the Authority are set out in the Garda Síochána Act 2005 (as amended) ('the Act'). The mission of the Authority is to hold the Garda Síochána fairly and transparently to account in the interests of all, particularly the most vulnerable.

The Act governs appointments to all ranks of the Garda Síochána and confers powers on the Authority to make appointments to certain senior ranks. In particular, under section 13, the Authority has the function, in accordance with regulations and having undertaken a selection competition for the purpose, to appoint a person to the rank of Chief Superintendent. The applicable regulations are the Garda Síochána Act 2005 (Appointments to the ranks of Assistant Garda Commissioner, Chief Superintendent and Superintendent) Regulations 2016 (S.I 641 of 2016) ('the Regulations').

The Garda Síochána

The Garda Síochána is the primary law enforcement agency in the State, operating on a 24-hour basis through a network of Garda stations and facilities throughout the State.

The Garda Síochána vision of a victim-centric police service is focused on keeping people safe, protecting the most vulnerable and providing a consistently high standard of service in line with its mission of "Keeping People Safe". The Garda Síochána must engage with the public and with a broad range of Government, community, and other external stakeholders on a variety of matters ranging from routine to sensitive and complex.

The Garda organisation is currently undergoing a wide-ranging programme of modernisation and renewal aimed at strengthening operational policing and improving police governance under the Government's Implementation Plan - A Policing Service for the Future. Officers at the rank of Chief Superintendent will play a key leadership role in the implementation of central elements of this programme, not least in leading out on the new Operating Model. This will place Chief Superintendents at the head of a divisional operation with responsibility and accountability for the autonomous delivery of operational policing in their Division or Unit within a corporate framework and with a defined budget and resources.

The Chief Superintendent role requires a skillset which includes the ability to prioritise resources and lead out visibly on the transformation agenda and in driving continuous improvement.

The Policing Principles

The Act defines the policing principles governing the provision of policing services, namely that policing services are to be provided:

- Independently and impartially;
- In a manner that respects human rights;
- In a manner that supports the proper and effective administration of justice; and
- That effective and efficient policing is dependent on securing the confidence, support and co-operation of local communities and engaging with those communities.

2. Selection Competition for the Rank of Chief Superintendent

The Policing Authority intends to hold a selection competition for the purpose of appointing persons to the rank of Chief Superintendent in the Garda Síochána. Applications are invited from eligible applicants who wish to be considered for appointment to this rank.

The Garda Síochána operates in locations across the State and positions to be filled from this competition may occur in any Garda Síochána Division or specialist unit. The precise nature of the assignment of successful candidates will vary depending on the location and role in which positions arise to be filled at the discretion of the Garda Commissioner.

A panel of candidates may be established by the Authority as a result of this competition, which will expire no later than 12 months from the date of its establishment. Being placed on a panel does not mean that a candidate will necessarily be appointed by the Authority. Regardless of being placed on a panel of candidates, the Authority cannot make an appointment unless there is a sanctioned post and all the requirements set out in Regulation 12 of the Regulations are met.
